

Paul believes music plays a vital role in the life of the Christ follower, as music enables each believer to know the Truth of the God's Word, praise HIS faithfulness and memorize scripture. Furthermore, God's gift of music comfort us in sorrow and affliction, unites the Body of Christ together, and brings us closer to Jesus.

Paul grew up in Antioch, IL, the son of two teachers, and has been involved in music ministry since his high school years in various denominations in Lake & Cook counties, as well as Iowa City, IA and Boston, MA.

Paul completed his undergraduate work at Wheaton College, Wheaton IL in Music & Christian Education and received his Master of Fine Arts in Organ Performance at the University of IA. His teachers include Delbert Disselhorst, Delores Bruch, Edmund Wright, Gladys Christiansen, Glenda Mossman, Rex D. Hicks, and Ralph Brooke.

Paul and his wife Jeannette sang together in Wheaton College Concert Choir. They have two grown sons whom they home schooled, David and Jonathan, who are musicians in their own right, plus two grandsons, Rainen and Osher and one "grand dog," Mozzie.

"Oh, sing to the Lord a new song;
Sing to the Lord, all the earth!
Sing to the Lord, bless his name;
Tell of his salvation from day to day."

Psalm 96:1
